WANDERER CONFESSES TO WIFE MURDER, AND ASKS TO BE HUNG

Beloit Italian Stabbed 41 Times; Dies

WILD MURDER ENDS
BIG POKER GAME;
VICTIM CHEATEDFRANK FARACE STABBED
41 TIMES BUT LIVES
FIVE HOURS.ASSAILANTS HELD
Two Sicilians Caught in Flight
Four More Apprehended
At Rockford.

With 41 knife and stiletto wounds in his body, Frank Farace, a Beloit Italian, died in Emergency hospital at 6:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the victim of his attempt to force six swarthy Sicilians in a poker game. Before he died he recovered sufficiently to tell the name of the man who did it and of the one who held him while the mangled man knelt pleading for his body with machine gun rapidly.

Two of the suspected assailants are held in the Beloit lock-up. The other four fled overnight and were captured last night at Rockford by the sheriff's office.

"Charley Did It." Another Italian boy held in the brief moment of consciousness as he lay on the operating table making a fight against death.

Calogero Basco, known to the Beloit colony as Charley, is held for the killing. He is in custody of the man who pinned Farace down while "Charley did it." The four at Rockford will be implicated as much as the two at Beloit. It was said by detectives at Beloit today.

Caught Running Away
The crime was committed at 1:30 yesterday afternoon in South Beloit, a few feet across the state line, south of the Beloit Traction company barns.

It was the police instinct of Art Bowles, South Beloit chief of police, and his assistant, Jess Oliver, which resulted in the almost instantaneous gathering of every member of the party present at the murder.

Beloit Police Aid
Before the crime, a crime had been committed. Bowles and Oliver had arrested Charley Basco and Joe Fragitto. It was not until the Beloit police arrived that the crime was known. A telephone call from a negro who found the body, that the South Beloit officers realized their case was in jeopardy.

Suspicious of the pair running through the underbrush toward the open country, Bowles and Oliver set out in pursuit. They followed them and found their clothing saturated with blood. Asked why all the hurry one told Bowles, "We're running to a job." The answer was "Well, all right, come on with me, I'll find you one," and he led them toward the lock-up to meet the Beloit officers.

Attempted to Cheat
According to the police, the crime was committed by the Beloit police. Chief Bowles and his officer, the killing resulted from the attempt of Farace to turn the trick for his own gain. He was instantly set upon by his fiery blooded countrymen.

Search at the police station Friday gave up $35 while Basco, the "Charley who did it," had but $2. This is significant to the police and Beloit's Italian detective, Dan Terrell, well known here for his work in clearing the Palermo murder in 1916.

Information reaching Beloit this morning was that the four arrested at Rockford were well supplied with money. On one was found $182 and two stilletos. The other appeared to have gone "broke." In the poker game, but 11 of a dozen eggs in his pockets were not. One was smashed.

The four fled overnight and hid in the brush outside of Rockford and were waiting for the Beloit county sheriff and a posse. One of the four and two loaded clips for an automatic pistol. Several of the men were in the county jail a woman called on the sheriff and handed to him an automatic pistol. She found it in the woman's short distance from where the group had been arrested. The clips fit the gun.

Retreat to Frontier of Republic
Before Great Bolshevik Offensive.

Paris, July 10.—Polish forces are withdrawing from Brest Litovsk, Vilna and Pinsk as a result of the great Russian bolshevik offensive, according to a telegram received by the U. S. information this morning.

Evacuation of Brest Litovsk, Vilna and Pinsk would seem to indicate a general withdrawal of the Polish line to the frontier of the new republic. Latest dispatches from Warsaw have shown the Poles to be fighting a considerable distance east of Brest Litovsk, although Pinsk would seem to be threatened by the advance of General Budennyi (further south).

Vilna is the principal city of Lithuania and is about 225 miles northeast of Warsaw.

MINERAL POINT HITS
SNAGS IN TRACKS
TO MILWAUKEE

BUSINESS MEN DISGUSTED
WITH TRAIN SERVICE
TO STATE METRO-POLIS.

MAYOR INDIGNANT
Citizens Ready to Aid Any Possible Move to Improve Schedule.

(By Gazette Staff Correspondent.)
Mineral Point, July 10.—Following suit of the other towns that are suffering because of the inadequate railroad service the indignation that has been brewing in Mineral Point since a head yesterday when Dr. A. D. Brown, mayor, declared that the people of Mineral Point stand ready to aid in any possible way the effecting of better service for this part of the country.

Trains Come Poking In.
He pointed out that the railroads have not given Mineral Point the service that the freight and passenger traffic to and from that place are entitled to. Mayor Brown said that there are now two trains coming into the city all the way from a half to two hours late every day and that once in the city one can not get out until the next day. There is no possible chance of getting to Milwaukee, a distance of 155 miles, and back in the same day. "Mineral Point," he said, "insists on better service and will go the limit to get it."

Better Service Promised.
W. J. Penhalligan, prominent merchant who has several times appeared before the commission in an effort to get for Mineral Point the service he needs, declared, however, that the mayor's statement by declaring that the railroad has never lived up to its agreement to supply better facilities when the prosperity of the town would warrant it.

He said that years ago the railroad promised to give Mineral Point an efficient schedule when the town had shown its worth by building a new school that cost approximately $75,000, a library, etc., and paved the streets but even then the railroad would not live up to its agreement. The citizens of Mineral Point will heartily endorse and support any effort to secure the service that this section of the country deserves.

What Others Think.
And here is what some of the other representatives of the town think of the service. "I'm really a better customer than a suggest," said one, "but that so that a person can get in and out in a day. That's not possible now. And besides the train never leaves but two or three hours late every trip."

Alex. Metz, druggist: "There should be a train in the morning and evening and one that leaves in the evening."

It's Terrible Ride.
William Evans: "It's a terrible ride, far too long. It is a good thing that there is going to be some concerted effort to have it remedied."

John Gray, dry goods: "The cause of this is simple. The railroad is not interested in the cause of the community."

H. C. Springer, treasurer Commercial club: "I call it damn punk. Imagine for a town this important as Mineral Point to be dependent on but one railroad, there are but two trains out of here a day, one that leaves here at 7 and gets to Milwaukee at only 11 and another at 1:20 and another at 7:30. Awful. A person can't go any place and get back in a day."

Good Engines.
H. C. Cummings, automobile dealer: "First let 'em get a couple of good engines. Just two years ago I got a couple of good engines."

Diplomatic Support.

Spa, Belgium, July 10.—The Polish question was the feature of a conversation yesterday between Premier Lloyd George and Premier Millerand.

Premier Lloyd George is understood to have said that in view of the agreement concluded between Great Britain and the Russian soviet government he did not feel disposed to do anything more than give diplomatic support to the Poles.

Millerand is reported as having replied that, this being the case, France could not go further. German contentions that the list of laws of war must be reduced if the collapse of the Berlin government is to be avoided, were discussed by a commission which met here this afternoon, according to an official announcement.

Baron Birkenhead, lord chancellor of Great Britain, declared the commission had decided that at Leipzig should be held a trial of the German government, and that the commission would confine itself to producing evidence from countries other than Germany.

He suggested that the evidence should be accepted according to the rules of procedure practiced in the countries from which it came, admitting that the German attorney general and court had been given a difficult task, assuming that a bonafide effort would be made to arrive at the truth.

USELESS TO TRIFLE WITH ALIENS—BERLIN
London, July 10.—A news that the German government had decided to accept the allied demands relative to disarmament was received quickly in Berlin. "The impression is general here," says the message, "that the German government is not to be trifled with on this point, and that it is best for the Germans to make terms quickly lest worse things befall them."

Ex-Army Lieutenant Loved Spouse Too Much to Let Another
Have Her, But Didn't Want Her Himself; Ragged Stranger Is Partially Identified.

Chicago, July 10.—Carl Wanderer, former army lieutenant and self-confessed slayer of his wife and an unidentified stranger, was ordered held to the grand jury on two charges of murder today by the coroner's jury.

The ragged stranger killed by Wanderer was partially identified to day as Al Watson, said to be the son of a New York "millionaire turfdom."

The identification was made by Mrs. Catherine Vanos, a resident of this city, who visited the morgue this afternoon after reading newspaper descriptions of the body.

Served Overseas.
Watson is said to have been a member of the Canadian Expeditionary forces and it is presumed he made the acquaintance of Wanderer while in the service.

Mrs. Vanos said she met the man in England. He was at that time a member of the 2nd mechanical transport engineers of the Canadian forces and that he told her he was the son of a New York millionaire horseman. Mrs. Vanos is an elevator operator.

Tired of Marital Ties.
The motive for the murder was first given by Wanderer as a desire to go back into the army, free from marital ties. It was later revealed, according to the police, that he wished the inheritance of her estate and did not intend to rob her nor have his other victims.

Wanderer signed his confession of the shooting after coolly reading over the stenographic copies of his oral statement. He stated calmly today that he was through talking and that he was "waiting for the hanging."

Attorney to Ask Hope
The grand jury Monday and ask him indictment on a charge of murder. State's Attorney Hoyne said: "It is one of the most cold blooded revolting crimes in Chicago's history. We shall ask and immediate trial and the rope."

"I want to be hanged," Wanderer commented, "before she can be executed. I wonder if she will forgive me. Well, I loved her too much to let another man get her, but I didn't want her myself."

OPEN TOP COAL CARS
NEEDED AT MINES TO RELIEVE CONGESTION

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, July 10.—Adequate facilities for coal shipments is the principal remedy for abnormal speculative prices, J. D. A. Morrow, vice president of the National Coal association, today told the interstate commerce commission in making an appeal for a continuation of a 30-day priority order for top coal.

At least 65,000,000 tons of coal will be required for the current year ending March 31, the association says. Domestic shipments from the mines have been 1,245,000 tons a week below the requirements making a total shortage of from 30,000,000 to 35,000,000 tons, he declared.

The witness denied that a great volume of export coal business has produced a shortage in this country.

"The total export of bituminous coal July 1, was only 8,000,000 tons," he said, "in that time the total domestic shortage was approximately 25,000,000 tons."

An embargo on coal "would be a rank discrimination against the coal producer," Mr. Morrow testified, adding that it was not practical to prohibit overseas movement of coal even if determined to do so. Much coal is shipped overseas, especially in the south, could not be utilized except through export, he said.

COMMITTEE OF 48 LAUNCH-

MOVE IN CHICAGO
CONVENTION

STUMBLE ON RAILS
Ownership Question Is Principal Issue to Be Worked Out.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Chicago, July 10.—The committee of 48—assisted by fraternal delegates representing a half dozen liberal and radical organizations—launched the third party movement here today in its first national convention.

Senator Robert M. La Follette, Wisconsin, who won in a mail referendum taken by the party to determine the most popular candidate from the party's presidential nomination, appeared to have no opposition in the race as the delegates assembled. Nearly every one of the 500 or 600 delegates wore a La Follette badge.

McCurdy His Keynote.
Today's session was given over largely to keynoting and organization work. Allen McCurdy of New York City hit the keynote in an address that condemned republican and democratic platforms and candidates and declared the time ripe for a new deal politically.

The convention was more than an hour late in starting, delayed by prolonged conferences between representatives of the committee, labor party, Non-Partisan League, single tax party, triple alliance of the northwest, and several other organizations which are flirting with the third party combine.

Rail Question Stumbles.
The railroad ownership question is the principal stumbling block. All elements are agreed they want public ownership of the railroads, but they differ materially on the degree of participation by the employees in the directing control of the lines.

Above the speaker's stand an American flag done in electric lights was turned on as J. A. H. Hopkins, national chairman of the committee of 48, hopped on to the platform.

He was greeted by three cheers and the band then played while the Non-Partisan League representatives addressed the Wisconsin delegates in singing "On Wisconsin."

Hopkins was followed to the platform by McCurdy and Mrs. Melinda Alexander, temporary secretary of the committee of 48.

Noble S. Elderkin, pastor of a Chicago church, delivered the invocation.

Single Taxers Firm.
Before adjourning to attend the conference of the committee of 48, the single tax delegates made a definite stand on the grounds upon which they could fuse with the new group. These included an "unequivocal and bitter end" to the "socialistic and parasitic" political machine and instructed their steering committee to demand peremptorily the inclusion of a single tax plank in the party platform.

All delegates advocated also an attempt to combine with the national labor party which opened the convention in the morning. There national convention to this plan but the convention finally selected a committee which will go before the labor convention as the sole representative of the single tax party.

Not to make overtures, but merely to say for what the tax party stands.

State standards were hoisted by all the states, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the District of Columbia.

J. A. H. Hopkins, who introduced the convention, declared that they were "here to strike the shackles of slavery apart" and declared their "opportunities" to be "unlimited."

The essential job is to unite our forces behind a common program and a common candidate, he said. "We are going to turn into one and the reconstruction, which was renewed again when Hopkins added:

"But we do not depend upon any single candidate."

McCurdy introduced Allen McCurdy, temporary chairman, and Melinda Alexander, temporary secretary.

"We do not necessarily believe in a third party," McCurdy said, "but we deny that the republican and democratic parties represent a two party government."

McCurdy's prolonged applause when he declared there was "a large difference between the deeds and acts of the present administration."

Charles F. Hoffman, Florida, presented to the convention after the brief recess a motion picture of the party and credentials, which occasioned much debate and some amendments before its adoption. By the vote in the convention it was declared as sufficient to nominate or carry a motion, and all delegates attending were seated, with fractional votes being cast by the delegates exceeding the allotment to their state or territory.

At the conclusion of McCurdy's address, there was a demonstration of the party, which ended with a march around the hall by the single tax group. The convention immediately began the work of permanent organization.

Lillian Ascoug, of Missouri, presented the report of the committee on permanent organization, naming Harley H. Wilkinson, of Utah, for permanent chairman. Frank Stevens, of Delaware, secretary; Mrs. Ina P. Williams, Washington state, assistant; Carl Jorgensen, of Wisconsin, for convention official.

ALL ROOMS IN "W" DORMITORY FILLED

Association Doing Best to Meet Shortage of Hotels and Rooms.

Doing its best to house the large number of youths and men who are working in this city, the local Y. M. C. A. has its dormitories filled constantly and a number who have no place to stay are turned away every night.

At present, the association is housing 50 men. Some evening, when a person comes in who cannot find a place in town to sleep, all the beds are filled and the person is turned away. The beds are put up in the reading room down stairs, which has recently been fitted up.

During the winter months more calls for rooms were received and all the beds were kept in constant use. Over a year ago, when ex-soldiers were coming home, the association was looking for jobs for them. It was then that the association was converted into a dormitory and all the beds that could be secured were used every night. The people of the city donated mattresses and blankets.

A Rather Hard Bed
The difficulty in finding rooms in the city is shown by some of the story incidents that take place. One story is told that one old night during the past winter along in the evening when every room in the building was occupied, a wealthy Chicagoan came in. He could not make train connections until the next morning. After going the rounds of the hotels and not securing a room, he turned to the Y. M. C. A. and was turned away.

Nothing doing. No room there and all the money he had couldn't get him one. As soon as he found this out, he took off his coat and using it as a pillow, slept on one of the long tables in the main lobby. But this is not the first time that this has happened. The piano has even been used as a bed.

Many Use Showers
If the "Y" cannot accommodate everybody on rooms, it can show a person and it does. During the hot weather many of the men of the city had to take showers as the only means to keep cool. The showers are to be used in the river.

On some of these hot days as many as 100 showers were taken daily. The local association will be equipped with showers having twelve in the regular shower room and several up stairs in the dormitory. The showers run at about 75 degrees even in the winter.

Ex-soldiers are helped there, that being part of the duties of Industrial Secretary J. C. Koller. Koller found that the war men were directed to jobs from the "Y".

Tank Is Popular
Activities in the Y. M. C. A. department are somewhat crowded during the summer months, as the younger fellows are all working or out of the city and soon the summer camp begins. However, the men are encouraged and swims in the tank, under supervision are given daily to the junior members.

The tank was emptied this week, the pipes fixed, the tank cleaned and refilled.

The Crab Swim

SIXTH INSTALLMENT

This is a swimming backstroke on the breast and is accomplished by an up and down movement of the leg in the water while sculling independently with your hands held out before you.

Rolling Log
Another name for this is the Revolving Statue. The body is resting in a floating position on the back, arms extended, take a deep breath and revolve rapidly by a movement of the head, or a wiggle.

Somersaulting
To do a backward somersault: lie on and draw up your knees and take a deep breath. Work the hands out to the knees pushing the water away from you. Turn a forward somersault reverse the hands and work at right angles to the body.

Spinning Top or position as for somersaulting and begin to scull from right to left or reverse.

Walking in the Water
This is a difficult stunt as the swimmer is on his back and goes feet first. It is slow but novel. The water is drawn under the body by downward and backward "push" of the arms and back. The motion of the legs is some what like the footwork on a bicycle.

The Bicycle
The bicycle is another of the difficult stunts. The body is resting on the side, the upper arm in a position similar to that of grasping the handlebars. The lower arm supports the body in a "treading motion." The legs are in motion like that on a bicycle, thus propelling the body in a circle.

The Wheel
This is one of the hardest of all stunts, for the reason that the swimmer has such a short time in which to inhale and exhale between the wheels. To be able to wheel in the water for a few minutes without the inconvenience is a great feat. The swimmer is a great breathing inconvenience is a great feat. HEIRESSSES WHO WED ABROAD TO RECOVER ALIEN PROPERTY

(By Associated Press.)

Washington—The amendment to the trading with the enemy act passed by the recent session of congress authorizes the return of $100,000 of enemy property, according to estimates of the alien property custodian's office. There will remain more than $250,000,000 in enemy property in the hands of that office.

Under the amendment, the "A. P. C." as the office is generally known, will release the property of several American heiresses who married foreign noblemen. The property of these heiresses was seized by the enemy during the war and was held in Germany.

The amendment also extends the privilege of prosecuting claims against enemy debtors to creditors in allied and neutral nations on contracts made before the war. made the summit without difficulty.

On August 3, 1919, an airplane piloted by Alexander Leitch, of Colorado Springs, made a successful trip over the summit of the peak.

Pike's Peak is eight miles in an air line from Colorado Springs and is controlled by the city of Colorado Springs for its watershed.

Walking races, horse races and motorcycle races have been held on the top, and many noted race drivers, including Ralph Mulford, Elmer Oldfield, Hughie Hughes, took part in the automobile races in 1916. Mulford made the best time for the 12 mile course from Crystal Creek to the summit, this being 15 minutes and 25 seconds.

In September the auto hill climb contest, which was discontinued during the war period, was resumed, but a month later a car race around the peak from Denver.

FAKE AR SOLD TO MILLIONAIRES

Fraudulent Mummies and Paintings and Antique Furniture.

New York—Age and value frequently being the greatest factors in the sale of art objects to international art dealers, Leonardo da Vinci's painting, "La Belle Ferroniere," was the cause of a recent dispute involving the opinions of two art experts of international repute.

The $1,000,000 painting was purchased for a Kansas City library, and its authenticity as a work of Da Vinci was guaranteed by a certificate issued by the French government, the advice of Georges Soriais, an art expert. The painting at one time was in the family of Chateaufort and was believed by the original owner to be a copy made by Da Vinci, one of which is in the Louvre.

But Sir Joseph Duveen, another art connoisseur of international fame, asserting that Soriais is not an expert on Da Vinci, declared that the original is the painting in the Louvre. PICNIC WILL BE GREAT OCCASION

Arrangements Made for Tremendous Crowd July 28, When Chamber of Commerce Will Be Host.

Plans for the Community picnic at Riverside park on Wednesday, July 28, formulated by the steering committee of the Chamber of Commerce, have now been so far completed that an official announcement can be made.

First it is proposed that this be a holiday in Janesville. The merchants close anyway in the afternoon and most of them have stated that they will be closed all day. Janesville has had no celebration; Memorial day and the Fourth were allowed to pass without any special attractions.

The Community picnic is Janesville's invitation to the people of the whole county to come and have a good time. The Chamber of Commerce will be the host.

The start off will be a parade at 10 o'clock in the morning. This is designed to be in several sections, illustrating many things and taking in every organization in the city.

Three bands are to furnish music, Bower City, Evansville and Edgerton.

At the park there is to be a basket picnic, but for those who have no baskets ample preparations will be made for a food supply.

A great program of sports in the water on land, races by motor boat, swimming, field sports and games is being arranged by the sports committee.

To Care for Crows. A committee on transportation will have charge of getting the people out to the grounds. A large field next to the park has been engaged for parking automobiles without cost. A committee on police and safety will have charge of the crows and a hospital on the grounds will take care of any person who becomes ill from excessive drinking of pop or suffers from accident.

A number of outside attractions are being arranged for and there will be a genuine lot of things to keep people busy.

It should rain on Wednesday and make it impossible to carry out the program on that day, the picnic will be held on Thursday, July 29.

In every way the committee of the Chamber of Commerce, acting with the directors, has made arrangements for the biggest thing of the kind ever held here and the entertainment of a tremendous crowd.

Get Your Car Repaired At "The ELKHART GARAGE" 113 N. Franklin St.

BACK HIM IN A prosperous farmer has gained the reputation of being the stingiest man in his town and consequently is not a general favorite with his neighbors.

He owns an old horse which, to put it mildly, is very thin. As if to make up for lack of flesh on his body, however, the animal has a head many sizes too large. The other week he went to the expense of a new collar for the animal. A few minutes after the delivery he was back at the saddler's with the collar. "Don't you know, nothing?" he blurted out. "You've made it too small. I can't get it over his head!" "Over his head?" replied the saddler. "Man alive, it wasn't made to go over his head. Back him into it!"—Chicago Daily News.

CLAY MODELER IS TO BE TRIED FOR TORTURING CHILD

Minnie Gallender.

A charge of brutally assaulting his seven-year-old daughter, Minnie, is pending against John Gallender of New York, known on the vaudeville stage as "Gallando, the clay modeler." District Attorney Lewis of Brooklyn stated after investigation that Gallender and his wife, now dead, hurled table articles at the girl and that Mrs. Gallender stuck needles into her. Gallender denies the charges.

CITY ATTORNEY TO PROBE TAX LAWS IN OTHER CITIES

No definite steps were taken at the meeting of the license committee of the city council and the tax-owners and drivers last night at the city hall, but many points were cleared up on both sides.

The reason given by the council for the new law, which makes it necessary to pay a license fee of $10 for each driver instead of $25 for the first car and $5 for each additional one, was that the automobile driving regulations must be more rigidly enforced. It was suggested by Alderman J. J. Dulin, chairman of the license committee, that the tax-owners get together and form a schedule of prices for submission to the committee.

Some of the complaints received were to the effect that in surrounding cities no driver's license is necessary or else it is smaller than it is here and also in other cities, Rockford specified, the council requires references before giving out driver's licenses. As it now stands, the council gives the licenses upon recommendation of the employer and then the employer is released of all blame when the driver leaves the offices.

City Attorney Roger Cunningham was taken to look up the licenses in surrounding towns and submit the figures to the council Monday night. However, it is Alderman Dulin's opinion that the council will take the same stand that it did when the new ordinance was passed.

The license committee is made up of Aldermen Dulin and Ransom, Alderman T. J. Dulin, Charles Ossmann and George Bidwell, a number of drivers were present.

Whereupon the court stenographer, who was not looking at the witness, demanded: "Answer that question."

The witness replied: "I did answer it. I nodded my head."

"Yes," was the retort. "I heard it rattle, but could not tell whether it was up and down or from one side to the other."

MINERAL POINT HITS SNAGS IN RAIL TRACKS

(Continued from Page 1.) went to Milwaukee and started home on that train that is supposed to get in here at 10:20. Well, we got a little way out of Milwaukee and the engine went on the blink and they had to send to Janesville for an engine. Then after we left Janesville the engine went on the blink again and we had to get another. Then we landed at the Point at after 2 in the morning instead of 10. That's service, huh?"

Henry Kieffer: "I don't travel much but I pity those that do."

A. A. Oehlrich, jeweler: "It's nothing to boast about. The Gazette is doing a good thing to go after it."

Haven't Any Service. John Nancolas, furniture dealer:

"We haven't got any service."

F. Crase: "We're at the end of the line and we sure get the tail end of the service. We get what's left over and have to be satisfied. Here's hoping something will be done."

George Varlin, clothier: "It is surely as poor as it can be—both as to time and service. The last time I went to Milwaukee I didn't get in until after midnight."

W. J. Cornell, clothier: "There is no denying the fact that it is bad. It would be of great convenience if there were a train that arrived in the morning and one that left in the evening."

R. C. Bennett, editor of the Mineral Point Tribune: "There is room for improvement and I hope something will be done."

Schedule Is Annoying. R. H. Scholla, manager Mineral Point Public Service Co.: "Rotten. It is an annoying schedule. It takes the best part of a day to get any place."

T. M. Priestly, lawyer: "I certainly want to see some additions and improvements to the present service. It needs it. It is a very good thing that the chambers and the Gazette have undertaken it."

Dr. H. D. Ludden: "The service is miserable. It is extremely annoying to those that have to use it."

R. J. Martin, clothier: "I never did think much of the service and I think less of it every day."

C. J. Hoare: "Business suffers greatly from the poor service."

George Harris: "It's not worth a tinker's damn."

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Lately Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a muddy complexion and a friend of mine said she thought it came from my drinking so much coffee. I have coffee three times a day and drink from two to three cups with each meal. Do you think I am doing myself any harm?

ANXIOUS TO DO RIGHT.

Excessive use of coffee so affects the nerves and digestion that eruptions on the skin and bad color are often caused. If you would be content with one cup of coffee in the morning and notice a vast improvement in your complexion.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl only nineteen years old, but, oh, so miserable I don't know what to do.

I have been going with a certain fellow, older than I am, and we are engaged. We have been together at first, but a certain girl who used to be my friend has been sending messages to my sweetheart and reminding that she would like him for herself. He called her up and she asked him to come down there although she had never seen him. He went to see her a few minutes several times and she was late coming to see me. I told him if he ever went to see her again he need not come to see me any more. He knew I was jealous and he went away again. Mamma said he couldn't come to see me if he went to see her, and so we were angry for three days and I was angry then and found I wasn't angry any longer and so now he is coming back and wants me to marry him right away.

I don't want to now as he may not be true to me, but he says he will. He is all alone in the world and I love him well enough to live with him in a moment.

My mother tells me she never thought about anything but getting married after she was sixteen. My father is dead, but he loved mamma until he died. She didn't love him, though. I think she is wanting to get married again but she knows it she does there will be a big fuss, as we all hate the man she likes. He is no good.

Would you advise me to go ahead and get married? I really do love him and he has plenty of property and money which his father left him. He is a traveling salesman now, but to please me he is going to do something else so he can be home oftener. The way it is at home I think it would be better for me to get married.

TRUE LOVE. Love should make you joyous instead of so miserable you don't know what to do. Don't let conditions at home hasten your marriage, because you should have time to be sure the marriage is for the best.

Tell your fiance that you would like to wait until fall or Christmas time to get ready. Ask him to change his business now so that he will be established in another line of work before marriage.

He was not loyal to you when he went to see the other girl. If he continues to follow such a policy he will not make you happy. Do not make him promise to stay away from other women. Simply watch and if he shows a tendency to like their company as well as yours you might just as well give up all thought of marrying him.

It would be better to leave home and work than to marry under the present conditions. Look the situation squarely in the face and if you see you are making a mistake change your mind before it is too late.

Before it is too late with your mother's wishes in regard to her marriage. Opposition from you might strengthen her desire to marry, but she is old enough to make her own decision anyway. If you choose wisely yourself you will be enough to occupy your mind.

Here Are Some Smart Outing Togs For a Summer in the Mountains

The girl who plans to spend her summer in the mountains must have a very different wardrobe from the girl who is to live in the country, in town or at the seashore during the hot months. She must have first of all plenty of warm clothes, warm coats, wraps and heavy skirts. Then there is always a necessity of heavy walking shoes. This year the separate skirt, usually a plaid of some kind, a sweater, short coat, or heavy topcoat, and a blouse to suit one's fancy is the accepted garb. Here are three outfits, every one featuring a plaid skirt, which would be ideal for the vacation at a mountain resort.

DISABLED SOLDIERS ARE MADE OVER INTO MODEST FARMERS

New York.—A number of modest little farms operated by veterans of the world war who have recovered from shell shock, gas, or wounds, now dot the states of New Jersey, Connecticut and New York. The owners of these farms, most of them graduates of the New York State School of Agriculture at Farmingdale, L. I., have been "rehabilitated" and are now making good as food producers with the same enthusiasm which took them "over the top" in France.

The transformation of most of these former soldiers who selected farming from among the subjects offered by the federal board of vocational training in many cases has been a complete metamorphosis of railroad brakemen, plumbers, mechanics, and laborers. One recent graduate of the school was a bartender before the war and today he owns a thoroughly up-to-date place near Tom's River, N. J.

According to A. A. Johnson, director of the school, there were 76 federal board men-enrolled in June, and a number of these have since graduated. Director Johnson was lavish in his praise of what the soldier farmers are accomplishing, declaring that not only were they doing their full share in the economic program of their country but "in a good many cases considerably more than others less handicapped." He said they were about "wounded." He said they were about "wounded." He said they were about "wounded."

Archibald A. Stone, former member of the Minnesota legislature who is in charge of the work for the government, and has studied the results of the farm vocational training plan, said that it is producing results of a definite and permanent character. The students may have both theory and practice at Farmingdale, 365 days in the year.

Michael Leary, who lost an arm at Chateau-Thierry, is specializing in tractor work, and with one hand and a steel hook drives a straight furrow, it is said, as any two-handed farm boy.

A year ago Charles Kupinski, another crippled soldier, had never ridden in a motor car. Recently, according to Director Johnson, he repaired a cracked cylinder in a heavy farm tractor, at a saving of nearly $200 to the school.

Other soldier graduates of Farmingdale who are operating farms are Harry T. Cruise, at Holbrook, L. I.; Gelson S. Smith, New Canaan, Conn.; Elmer E. Sturtz, Wellersburg, Pa.; Austin A. Sullivan, Ronkonkoma, L. I., and a number of others within 50 miles of New York.

A REAL ARTIST.

Some of the workmen on the new Christian church buildings were compensating Rev. Brink on his ability to help out in about any place necessary. He graciously admitted that he was a pretty handy man, but said his skill was nothing compared to that of a stone cutter he once knew. The curious part of it was that the man was a nigger who had only one arm.

"How does he manage it if he has only one arm?" questioned one of the men.

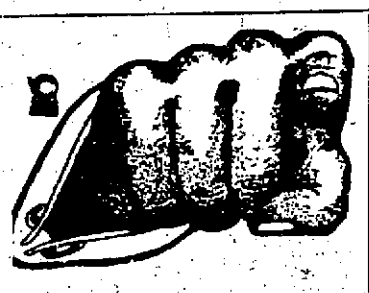

"Why," said Brink, "he holds his chisels between his teeth and hits himself behind the head with the hammer."—Winanma (Ind.) Democrat.

SERMONS IN PARAGRAPHS

We need to glorify our daily work more. Whether in home or shop or factory, to know that we labor for the glory of the Lord. To be honest in our work, to labor right, whether seen or unseen. Any work, if it is honorable and upright is done for the glory of the Lord. The only shame should be for dishonest toil and life.—Rev. C. J. Muller, Pastor St. Peter's Lutheran church.

"God of Love" God's love works out in life. It is not a fondling sentiment but a holy principle. God does not garnish the grain nor put the potatoes in the cellar. He shares life with us and cooperates with us in our work. The love of God is not therefore seen at a glance. It is discovered in experience. No view of life undergirds good sense, kindness, and faith as does the view which holds that God is love.—Rev. J. A. Melrose, Pastor Federated Church.

Are you going to church tomorrow? One says, no, because there are so many hypocrites in the church. Pshaw! Do you not know that hypocrites at first hand.—Rev. J. C. Thorson, Pastor First Lutheran Church.

SALVATION ARMY HAS AID OF CITIZENS IN ANTI-VICE FIGHT

Chicago.—Announcement was made at headquarters of the Salvation Army here that 60,000 citizens "representing the most active elements in the social and economic life of the states west of the Mississippi" have been enlisted to aid the army in arresting vice and helping the poor and unfortunate. The statement says in explanation of the new organization:

"This work is to be conducted through the medium of advisory boards. By the first of October there will be a board in every county, and 12,000 leading citizens will thus be banded in an effort to assist the crusade and fight."

County advisory boards, supplemented by the trained personnel of the army and its chain of institutions, are strenuously attempting to solve the social problems of their home communities.

Briefly, the advisory boards constitute a live active lay organization and through this constituency the Salvation Army aims to extend its facilities to every corner of the western states. Although a part of the Salvation Army's home service program in 1920, the work is of a permanent character, and dedicated to broaden the scope of the army's labors without invading new activities or encroaching on other organizations.

County advisory boards will be linked together by a state advisory board. Activities will be centralized and efforts unified through this system. The constructive program of an organization which is interwoven in all the Salvation Army's operations will be carried, together with better facilities for temporary aid and encouragement, to each community west of Chicago.

"Advisory boards will be authorized representatives of the community, and will be expected to advise with officers over the amount of the need for any or all of the organization's sixteen major activities in each county. They will bring to the attention of the army all cases that come within the scope of its activities."

In the aggregate they will constitute an elaborate and powerful union, equally distributed throughout 24 states, and composed of responsible men and women devoted to the promotion of American ideals and the betterment of mankind."

NEWS OF THE SHOPS

A beautiful pitcher of green, keeping for hours any liquid at the desired temperature, is on a lovely tray of green, with two pretty glasses. The set complete is $15.

In this same department a fetching gown and capped girl's doppelganger, is on a lovely tray of deliciously appealing ices and sherbets.

Safe from the greedy moth and persistent dust are all garments placed in bags that sell in waist size at $1.25, in size at $1.50, and dress size at $1.75. A metal ring holds many hangers and the bags open conveniently at a glance. These bags are a wise purchase.

Blue candy composites are smart at 65 cents.

Just the thing for summer days are beautiful lemonade pitchers of blue glass with six glasses; $2.75 complete is their remarkable price. With six pretty 15 cent glass spoons, this set would prove an ideal wedding gift.

A green glass pitcher is $1.50. Six matching glasses are $1.50.

Ice cream plates of pretty blue glass are but $1.50 the dozen.

Attractive marmalade jars of sparkling mulberry glass are 85 cents.

Handled glass cheese plates of pink, green and blue are lovely at $1.50.

NEW FILMY JACKET TO REPLACE SCARF

By ELOISE

The open season for dances is at hand. That is the warm days are arriving when the fair dancer often wants to get out a one-step or two on the moonlit veranda, or in the garden. When such nights come she must have a dainty airy covering for her bare arms and neck or she will catch cold.

For centuries the scarf has served that purpose. There have been tulle scarfs, beaded ones, fringed ones, ostrich feather stoles and all manner of covering for the bare shoulders which always accompany the evening or dance frock.

Here is the very newest bit of novelty for midday. It is a tulle jacket to take the place of the century-old scarf. It is a dainty bit of tulle made of the finest of tulle edged with fluting of the same material. It will be hard to convince mere mortals that this little wrap could ever keep out the cold night air, especially since it is sleeveless, but the fair dancer will insist that she is "quite warm, thank you."

Although this little jacket may be popular it can never replace the scarf with the centuries of romance interwoven in its folds.

FADS AND FANCIES

Straw robes and woven belts are seen on some vogue frocks.

An overmidnight blue crepe de chine is embroidered in an all-over design in white beads.

A chemise tunic of white chiffon is trimmed at the bottom with white woven squares set in a circle of jet beads.

The languishing is a very much favored color in Palm Beach.

A peach colored crepe de chine blouse lined with flesh pink chiffon, is embroidered in black and deep orange.

Straight hanging dresses are the most satisfactory for working about the house.

Tall plain lemonade glasses are a good purchase at 15 cents each.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

SUMMER NIGHTS ARE LOVERS' NIGHTS.

Aunt Cecilia and I are to motor to town with Jack this morning. It has been a delightful rest here at Hope Island, and I feel all roared out mentally and physically. At last I am still at sea about my own self, and I know that the only cure for that is my trip to Europe, scintillating and when not busy with plenty of new ideas to visit and take my mind off of sex!

Cecilia told me the other night that I would make a fine wife for Jack. I know that I have never had the feeling for Jack that I had for this wild-eyed cousin of mine, on several occasions. Of course, she does not convince me that is the reason he, and not Jack, is the man for me. No, that would be allowing one's self to be swayed by the feelings of the moment, and some does not always make for the happiest marriages; that is, according to mother and Aunt Molly, and so on. However, I am the one to judge for myself on the subject, and I intend to, when alone.

All the lovers arrived last night, and we went in for a late swim, and had such a jolly time. Then came a supper served on the beach and with the violins playing from the porch. It was heavenly. Jack says that I look my loveliest in my bathing suit and with my hair floating down my back. Of course there was a moon, a moon to one, it seemed like a record, and we sat about after the stars had come out and played our roles of comedians, each in her own way. Dorry skirted off early to visit some friends, and to avoid having to watch us all make shipwrecks of ourselves right under her eyes! I know that damn, all right.

DISCOVERIES

Camphor for Fires—Never go into the woods without a few squares of camphor gum in your pocket for lighting fires. A small piece of gum burns long enough to kindle the wood even in wet weather and has the advantage of being convenient to carry when out on a camping trip.

In Washing—Knead the clothes in a little starch and leftover coffee is used in the rinsing water. They will look like new. Hang on the line dripping, making the pressing much easier.

Using Sugar Sacks—Many uses can be made of the muslin sacks which accumulate in a thrifty household. These sacks of the hundred pound sugar size may be purchased for a few cents at bakeries. A good bed cover can be made from the large sugar and feed sacks. Cut enough squares to make the size comfort you wish. Color half of these dark blue, green or brown and the other half tan, light blue or rose. Sew the squares together on the machine and you have a cover ready for its cotton filling. Sale prices may be cut in squares and hemmed narrow for children's everyday handkerchiefs.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE PICKNICK BASKET

These may be packed in a zinclined basket in cracked ice:
A mold of jellied chicken madrilene or tomato broth to serve in cold salad.
Cold boiled lobster in the shell with mayonnaise.
Shells of crab meat. Ravigotte.
Crab meat packed in glass jar and mayonnaise packed separately in empty shells to fill with mixtures.
Iced clam bouillon in cups (packed in two-quart glass jar).
Cold broiled chickens in waxed paper.
Cold roasted squab chickens with stuffing.
Cold roasted chickens with water-cress.
Hearts of lettuce wrapped in a napkin and put on cracked ice to chill.
Cooled tomatoes and sliced cucumbers ditto.
White cherries with stones removed, filled with cream cheese. Served with lettuce and mayonnaise as salad.
Cold individual chicken and ham pies.
Cold Cornish pasties.
Cold cornucopias of Virginia ham.

stuffed with cabbage salad.
Cold cherry or strawberry tart.
Stuffed celery with cream and Roquefort cheese.
Eggs stuffed with caviar or anchovies.
Cantaloupes to chill and fill with fresh raspberries.
Cold fried brook trout with water-cress.
Cold breast of chicken supreme.
Lobster, chicken or crab-fake salad in jars.
Biscuit Tortoni in paper cases.
A jar of mixed fruits in syrup to serve in ginger ale or lemonade.
Iced coffee or chocolate.

FASHION'S FADS

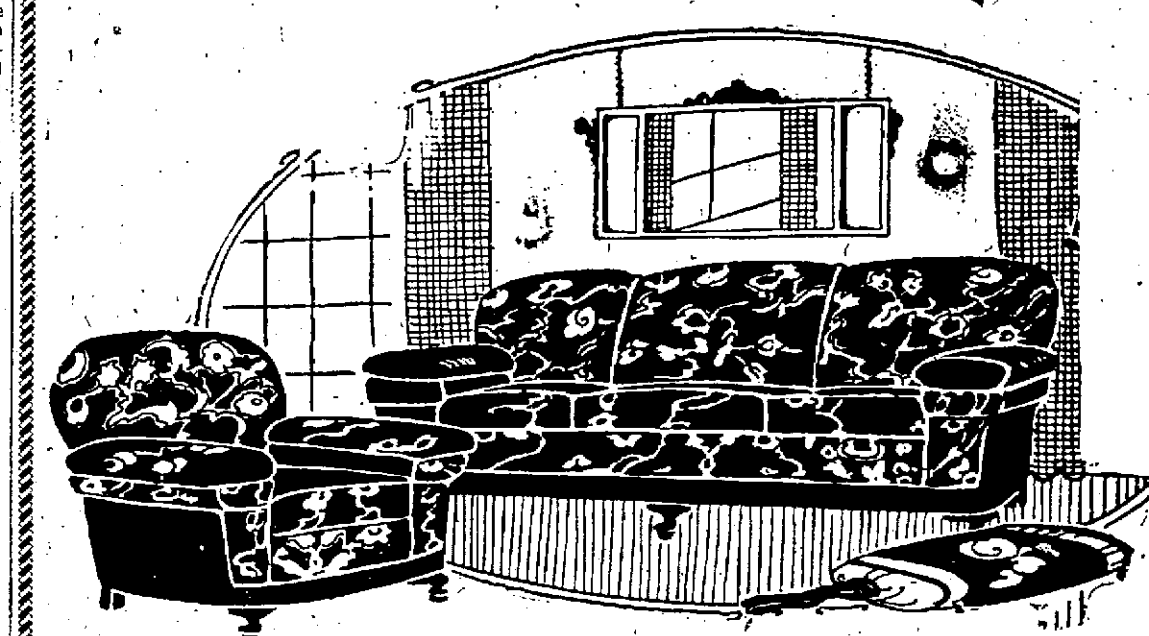

Many wraps have cascade or pocket effects at the sides, giving width at the hips.

Beading, pompons of silk and wool and pasted coin spots of velvet decorate the new fabrics.

WASHINGTON DEB ENGAGED TO WED

Miss Marion Drain.
Miss Marion Drain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Drain, Washington, and one of last season's debutantes at the capital, is engaged to marry Theodore Hubbard Evans. Her parents announced the engagement recently. Evans served in the war. He is now in business in Birmingham.

HIGH GRADE OVERSTUFFED FURNITURE

We are showing at the present time, the largest stock of overstuffed furniture ever shown in Janesville. These pieces have soft, restful pillow arms, well padded back, and removable spring cushions. Beneath the cushions is a spring foundation, so constructed that it can never sag. Upholstered in attractive Tapestries or Velours. We know that you will find our display very interesting. You will not be urged to buy, that is against our policy.

FURNITURE AND UNDERTAKING

22-24 WEST MILWAUKEE STREET

The Mystery of Hartley House

By CLIFFORD S. RAYMOND
(Copyright by George H. Dorn Co.)
"It is more than most ghost stories have," said Mr. Sidney.

CHAPTER V.

I could not believe the slightest particle in the ghost story. I am rationalistic. But as the legend of the pond took shape, my imagination began to give substance to its shadows.

Yet the place was genial and cordial. Mr. Sidney's joviality was the dominant note in the house. An aging sick man might naturally have been testy. He might have been impatient, have whims and crochets. He might have been irascible in his demands upon and acceptance of service. But Mr. Sidney was always cordial and considerate. A great deal of the time he spent in bed. When he was not in bed, he sat in a great chair, and very often a yellow Persian cat rested on his knees. It was a difficult if not dangerous matter for any one else than Mr. Sidney to touch the cat, named Algot.

"The Winking Demon," said Mr. Sidney, fingering the cat's ruff as it lay on his lap, and purred. "I knew just enough of the star Algot and its ways."

"Don't those bells sound lovely?" "Can't hear what you say?" "Don't those bells sound fine?" "It's no good. I can't hear you for those confounded bells."

"Have you said your prayers?" "Of course," replied the child. "Am I afraid you talk to be made a better little boy?"

"Yes, and I put in a word for you and father, too."

"Do you want the court to understand," he said, "that you refuse to renew your dog license?"

"Yes, sir," said the child. "You must renew the license or be fined. You know that it expires on January first."

"Yes, sir," said the child. "I was being demoted, and he did not care what happened, he felt so for the last time he faced the sergeant major, the man who had made life a burden so long."

"Now, my mother," answered the sergeant major haughtily, "answer my questions smartly. What did you do for a living before you joined the army?"

"I was a clerk in an office sir," replied the private happily. "Washing out ink spots, I suppose."

"No sir," replied the private sweetly. "We employed a retired sergeant major for that sort of work."

"The malevolence—the malignancy, the hatred, the concentrated essence of ferocity in Mr. Sidney's face would have stopped anyone. To one who had affection for him as I had, it was a confession of something I did not want to know."

"I was in fear that he might hear me and, opening his eyes, find that I had discovered him. I was embarrassed and uncertain what to do. It was a silly predicament, as I saw afterward. My part was quite simple. I should have said no attention to any such phenomenon as the expression on a man's face and have acted perfectly naturally."

"The common-sense thing—and I consider myself fairly sensible—was to act as if nothing had happened. The astonishing shock of the thing that I was unable to act sensibly."

"The expression on a man's face, to knock a sensible person out of all his senses? Here was a doctor man merely talking with a cat's ears, and the very least of what was expressed in his face made me dumb."

"I cannot understand it now, the terrifying sensation being one which disappeared as the recollection of the emotions faded. What I did was to back toward the door, open it as quietly as I could, back out, and then re-enter the room noiselessly."

"Mr. Sidney was looking at me smilingly. His charin of manner never seemed more positive and active."

"Hello, doctor," he said. "I need company and just your company. If you would only drink wine!"

A broken pipe in the laundry made it necessary to call a plumber from Hartley, and to get quick service it was agreed we should send a car for the man and his helper.

The day was pleasant, and for the sake of the drive I went with the driver. The plumber was a fat man of the comic type. I thought he must be the embodiment of all the plumbier jokes they seem to have invented him; he was the product of the comics.

I even asked him if he were sure he had all his tools. I thought he would be sure to send us back for a wrench. He was amiable, laughed at anything or nothing and was so friendly that I was sure only by an accident he was not only by an accident he was the product of the comics.

Driving through the Hartley house grounds, we took the pool, and the plumber named Harkins—chuckled. "Thus far, whenever he or something else amused me and I laughed, he seemed to chuckle as if in recollection of an experience richer or deeper than any he had been talking of."

"The next place is going to be remembered by me," he said. "I have been out here only since the night I made a bet I was not to sit on the bank here for an hour. They've got a good many stories of this place in town. I had been drinking a little. I don't do it steadily, but once in a while I get the house going happy. Give the wife something to talk about. My wife would rather tell me than that, and she loves her gold."

"We were at the White Pigeon, having a good time but thinking of going home, when some one came on this Hartley house story. Everybody had something to say, and I said that there was no ghost that ever was within a hundred miles of Hartley. That's where I made a fool of myself. I've got to admit that where I made a fool of myself. I had five dollars I would sit an hour on the bank at this place. I forgot all about the dogs, or I'd not have made the bet. Anyway, they didn't bother me. We got an automobile and drove out here. The fellows left me at the pool and went a mile back. They were going to take my word for it. I was to stay an hour and then start walking back. At the end of an hour they would start toward me and pick me up. They had beer and sandwiches, I had a couple of bottles and some cheese and crackers."

"I wasn't afraid of that place. I'm not afraid of any place unless I get to thinking about this one. It was along in October. A hot-owd was somewhere back of me, and there was a whippoorwill up toward the house."

Dinner Stories

John and his friend were out for a walk and while passing a country church John said to his friend: "Don't those bells sound grand?"

"What do you say, John?"

"Don't those bells sound lovely?" "Can't hear what you say?" "Don't those bells sound fine?" "It's no good. I can't hear you for those confounded bells."

"Have you said your prayers?" "Of course," replied the child. "Am I afraid you talk to be made a better little boy?"

"Yes, and I put in a word for you and father, too."

"Do you want the court to understand," he said, "that you refuse to renew your dog license?"

"Yes, sir," said the child. "You must renew the license or be fined. You know that it expires on January first."

"Yes, sir," said the child. "I was being demoted, and he did not care what happened, he felt so for the last time he faced the sergeant major, the man who had made life a burden so long."

"Now, my mother," answered the sergeant major haughtily, "answer my questions smartly. What did you do for a living before you joined the army?"

"I was a clerk in an office sir," replied the private happily. "Washing out ink spots, I suppose."

"No sir," replied the private sweetly. "We employed a retired sergeant major for that sort of work."

"The malevolence—the malignancy, the hatred, the concentrated essence of ferocity in Mr. Sidney's face would have stopped anyone. To one who had affection for him as I had, it was a confession of something I did not want to know."

"I was in fear that he might hear me and, opening his eyes, find that I had discovered him. I was embarrassed and uncertain what to do. It was a silly predicament, as I saw afterward. My part was quite simple. I should have said no attention to any such phenomenon as the expression on a man's face and have acted perfectly naturally."

"The common-sense thing—and I consider myself fairly sensible—was to act as if nothing had happened. The astonishing shock of the thing that I was unable to act sensibly."

"The expression on a man's face, to knock a sensible person out of all his senses? Here was a doctor man merely talking with a cat's ears, and the very least of what was expressed in his face made me dumb."

"I cannot understand it now, the terrifying sensation being one which disappeared as the recollection of the emotions faded. What I did was to back toward the door, open it as quietly as I could, back out, and then re-enter the room noiselessly."

"Mr. Sidney was looking at me smilingly. His charin of manner never seemed more positive and active."

"Hello, doctor," he said. "I need company and just your company. If you would only drink wine!"

A broken pipe in the laundry made it necessary to call a plumber from Hartley, and to get quick service it was agreed we should send a car for the man and his helper.

The day was pleasant, and for the sake of the drive I went with the driver. The plumber was a fat man of the comic type. I thought he must be the embodiment of all the plumbier jokes they seem to have invented him; he was the product of the comics.

I even asked him if he were sure he had all his tools. I thought he would be sure to send us back for a wrench. He was amiable, laughed at anything or nothing and was so friendly that I was sure only by an accident he was not only by an accident he was the product of the comics.

Driving through the Hartley house grounds, we took the pool, and the plumber named Harkins—chuckled. "Thus far, whenever he or something else amused me and I laughed, he seemed to chuckle as if in recollection of an experience richer or deeper than any he had been talking of."

"The next place is going to be remembered by me," he said. "I have been out here only since the night I made a bet I was not to sit on the bank here for an hour. They've got a good many stories of this place in town. I had been drinking a little. I don't do it steadily, but once in a while I get the house going happy. Give the wife something to talk about. My wife would rather tell me than that, and she loves her gold."

"We were at the White Pigeon, having a good time but thinking of going home, when some one came on this Hartley house story. Everybody had something to say, and I said that there was no ghost that ever was within a hundred miles of Hartley. That's where I made a fool of myself. I've got to admit that where I made a fool of myself. I had five dollars I would sit an hour on the bank at this place. I forgot all about the dogs, or I'd not have made the bet. Anyway, they didn't bother me. We got an automobile and drove out here. The fellows left me at the pool and went a mile back. They were going to take my word for it. I was to stay an hour and then start walking back. At the end of an hour they would start toward me and pick me up. They had beer and sandwiches, I had a couple of bottles and some cheese and crackers."

"I wasn't afraid of that place. I'm not afraid of any place unless I get to thinking about this one. It was along in October. A hot-owd was somewhere back of me, and there was a whippoorwill up toward the house."

Gazette Birthday Club

OLDEST READER OF GAZETTE

How many people are there in Rock County who were here when the Gazette was established seventy-five years ago?

How many are there who remember the first issue of the paper on August 14, 1845? That is a long time when we look back to it.

The oldest reader of the Gazette may have every issue from the first little four page sheet up to the present time barring a few when absent from home or illness prevented. Who is he or she?

The Gazette wishes to know who is the oldest reader—the oldest subscriber. Here is one subscriber with receipts for his subscription dated in 1859. He would come pretty near the winning class perhaps.

For the oldest subscriber to the Gazette we will present a gold medal and for the two next oldest subscribers silver medals.

Levi Alden a former resident of Janesville sold the Gazette on the streets at the time of the lynching of Maybury in 1855 and was one of the first carriers of the Gazette.

We have gathered a wealth of reminiscences and sketches of the oldest people in the county—and want more.

Who is the oldest man in your township? Who is the oldest person in your town who was born in Rock County?

Every Saturday the Gazette will print this feature of the Birthday Club. Are you eligible? You are if you were born in 1845 or were here at that time.

If so we want you to become a member by letting the Gazette know. The days are fast passing when any one who was here in the stirring times of the pioneer will be alive. The story should be told now.

The Story of the First White Girl Born in Janesville

An aged curiosity brought the Indians flocking around the house to see the first white girl born in Janesville, the first white girl born in the city.

Helen Bailey, now Mrs. Helen M. Bostwick, widow of R. M. Bostwick, looks back through the 55 years of her life, recalling the first white girl born in Janesville, the first white girl born in the city.

Wouldn't come in "The Indians wouldn't come in, you know," Mrs. Bostwick reminds.

MRS. HELEN M. BOSTWICK First white girl born in Rock county and still living in Janesville one, "they never would come inside of the white man's house. They just looked in. But they were always friendly. My father had been kind to them and they remembered."

The days Mrs. Bostwick recalls are of the year's following 1837, her natal year, five years after the first white boy, Black Hawk's grove, just outside of the present city limits of Janesville, was the home of the red men.

"On there were hundreds and hundreds of them," she recalled.

In those days the nearest trading center was Galena, Ill. The distance having to be traveled by road, parties of Indians were often met, but they were seldom hostile, if treated right.

Many Indian trinkets were brought home to the Bailey children by their father, whom the Indians numbered among their friends.

Helen Bailey Bostwick, recorded as the first white girl born in Janesville, as Seth St. John was the first white boy, is one of the rapidly decreasing number of long article readers.

With her 55 years of life, excepting those her marriage, spent in Janesville, Mrs. Bostwick becomes a charter member of The Birthday Club.

Gazette Sponsors Club This club is being sponsored by the Gazette in commemoration of its seventy-fifth anniversary. The membership is open to all those who have lived in this city and this vicinity for 75 years or more.

"It's an honor to be old after you pass that uncertain mark when you have to admit the facts," declared Mrs. Bostwick when questioned about membership in the club. When she points out smilingly, she knows the age of other people who have lived around here for a long time.

Came West on Horseback and Mrs. Bostwick's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bailey, young and newly-wed, were lured westward by the "Go west, young man, go west" spirit, declared their daughter. That was the journey from Cincinnati overland, a great part of it on horseback, attracted to Janesville by the farming and real estate opportunities and could be purchased at $12 an acre. Their first home was a log house on what is known as the Burr Robbins farm in Spring Brook. They later built a residence on Main street.

Mr. Bailey was destined to become one of the leaders of pioneer city country life. Attained with the whigs, he became the first clerk of the board of commissioners when Rock county was organized in 1839. He was likewise the first register of deeds in the county and the first clerk of the county board of supervisors.

Was in Real Estate Business In the business world he was associated with John P. Dixon in the real estate business in 1849 and with Thomas Lippin in a general store in 1842.

Charles Stevens, this bridge was used for 10 years. Mr. Bailey, associated with A. H. Smith, built a dam across the river in 1844-45. In 1848 he became one of the incorporators of the Madison-Beloit Railway company, building the first railroad in the state. A new addition to the city was later laid out by Smith, Bailey, and Stone.

These facts of progress in the city four score years ago show Janesville a town of opportunity, with a steady population lying the foundations for the Janesville of 1920.

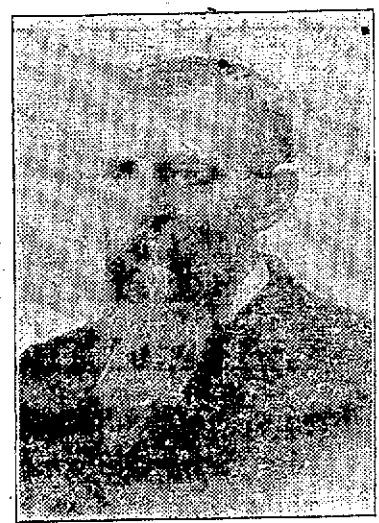

One of the Oldest Readers of Gazette is Wm. H. Johnson.

William Henry Johnson, 75 years of age and for forty years a resident of Janesville, has read the Janesville Gazette ever since he could read. It was in his father's house regularly from the first edition on, and Mr. Johnson is a regular subscriber now.

He was born near Union, in Rock county, on July 13, 1845, and lived there until forty years ago, when he moved to Janesville. He is now the oldest living person who was born in a house of logs that he helped to build.

Mr. Johnson remembers the wolves and bears ranging wild around the county and remembers building a house of logs that he helped to build. He did not think enough of religion then, or could not afford to have a building for a church and the wolves howling around nights.

They did not think enough of religion then, or could not afford to have a building for a church and the wolves howling around nights. They came around, stayed a week, preaching in some house, and then moved to some other locality, where they stayed another week. Later a United Brethren church was built which is still being used by that order.

The present Mr. Johnson's father, Daniel Johnson, was the first publisher and never missed having it in the house. William and Henry, the two sons read it as soon as they could read anything, and have read it ever since. Daniel Johnson often wrote for the paper.

Nearly 50 Years a Reader

By O. G. Briggs, Albany, Wis. I have been asked by your representative in Albany to write an article for the Gazette, as the one who has probably read the paper more than anyone in the village.

I was born in Rock County, this state in 1861 and moved to Rock county on a farm near Johnsons Center in 1871, and it was there that I first saw the Janesville Gazette, then a weekly journal. Since that time I have kept in touch with the paper, although not a constant reader, and have noticed its gradual rise as a weekly and daily newspaper, until now, instead of picking up a Milwaukee or Chicago daily for news, I first reach for the Gazette, because it has all the news of value given by the "great" dailies and then I can turn to the county and local news and find all I need in its columns.

It does not always express my views, politically, but I believe its editors are fair and honest in their views and the paper is always open to the public to discuss all public affairs.

I was for about two years connected with the force of workers in the mechanical department and although a small cog in the great wheel, I learned that it takes many little as well as many big cogs to make a machine like the Gazette go. Among my personal friends, in Janesville I count some of the Gazette force, especially Jack Charn, foreman of the mechanical department of the paper, and Fred Myhr, his assistant. Jack has been with the Gazette since it was started and in many ways works under him that does not feel that he is his friend. We always like to drop into the Gazette office and the managers usually find time to say "how" and the good fellows in the job and news departments always give us a "shake" when we call. Success to the future of the Gazette.

Oldest Resident of Evansville Has Lived There 76 Years.

Coming to this county when there was little in it but woods and animals and a few log cabins Mrs. Ann E. Rowley, 87 years of age last February, has many interesting recollections of the growth of Evansville in the 76 years that she has lived there.

Mrs. Rowley was born on February 15, 1833 and together with 15 others from Milwaukee wound their way in a wagon in 1844 from that village to the little grove where Evansville now lies. At that time there were no houses there and a school house built of logs that stood in back of the place where the Grange bank is now situated.

The Little School Teacher Above all others in the estimated of the fellow villagers at that time was the school mistress and a place was always found for her to teach, even though it was only a single room, poorly heated.

MRS. ANN E. ROWLEY Who has lived in the town of Union for 76 years.

In this way Mrs. Rowley did her first to help educate the school children in the necessary studies, starting teaching when she was fifteen years old in a little chamber, the only heated room in the school house.

It was luxury indeed when more settlers came, to have a bedroom, which although not properly heated, according to the present standards, was a great improvement over their first little room. The town continued to grow and finally a school house was built.

The Rural Ones The teachers then as have until recently, boarded around at the different pupils' homes to pay for the education that they received.

Mrs. Rowley remembers the scarcity of fruit when she first came here wild grapes and plums being the only fruit that could be found. Securing provisions was another of the difficulties in those days. In Union, a man named Mr. Dudley ran a grocery and general merchandise store and the people from Evansville secured their goods there, as it was the nearest store that side of Janesville.

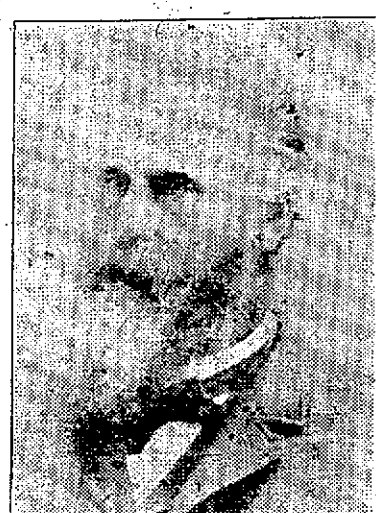

A Three Days' Journey Money was hardly known in those days, all the trading being done with wood, and only the things that were absolutely necessary being bought.

The people nowadays would think hardly anything of a spin down to Beloit from Evansville. In those days however it was a three days trip. Mrs. Rowley remembers in the fall of 1844 when her father undertook the trip taking down some wheat to the mill to have ground for their winter flour. To dispose of their produce, it had to be hauled to Milwaukee to the markets, there and often the grain they took in didn't pay for its transportation. It was a great relief in 1856 when the railroad was built through Janesville.

Mrs. Rowley's father bought half a hog one fall and his wife made lard from it, getting about a half of a frying pan of it, which together with one pound and a half of butter, lasted the family all winter.

Oldest Man in Town of Magnolia—B. P. Hess.

paratively well settled when he came and, yet he had many of the experiences of the pioneer. He is the oldest man in the town of Magnolia, so far as is known, having been born in New York state December 27, 1832.

THE MINIMUM WAGE LAW

Minimum wage laws are now in operation in 14 states and in the District of Columbia and in practically all foreign countries. The idea behind these laws is that "a laborer is worthy of his hire." Every woman who puts in an honest day of work should be paid enough to support herself in reasonable decency and comfort, at least after the learning period.

This has been a requirement of law in this state since 1913. Not until 1919, however, was a determination made of what is the living wage.

This law applies to all employers of women and minors, in every occupation. The minimum rate which may be paid to every adult woman or to every minor over 17 years of age is 18 cents per hour during the first three months of employment in a trade or industry; 20 cents per hour during the second three months, and 22 cents per hour after six months.

In seasonal industries which operate for only a few months during the year, the learning period is recognized and all women and minor employees must be paid at least 22 cents per hour. Minors between 14 and 17 years of age must be paid at least 18 cents per hour, which rate must be increased to 20 cents per hour when the minor is past 16 and has completed three months in the industry. Where board or lodging is furnished by the employer, he may claim credit therefor of $4.50 per week for board and $2.00 per week for lodging.

Special orders have been made for small telephone exchanges and for hospitals and sanitariums. These establishments must pay the same hourly rate as other employers. Since the work is intermittent, it has been found necessary to determine specially the number of hours which may be taken by the employee, the actual amount of work done and which must be paid for.

The only women or minor employees to whom less than the rates given above may be paid are indentured apprentices and physically or mentally handicapped persons who have been licensed by the Industrial Commission to work for less than the living wage. No such license can be granted unless there is a genuine handicap, according to the Industrial Commission, to enable a person who is not handicapped to earn at least the minimum living wage.

Employers very generally have accepted this law without complaint. At present prices, 22 cents per hour is not a desirable wage, but only a minimum living wage. Most women and minor employees in the state are and should be well above this minimum. Nor is this wage based upon Milwaukee prices, but rather upon conditions in the small towns.

It is true that only 25% of the women employees in Wisconsin live away from home. Most of the other 75% however, must contribute to the family treasury at least enough of their maintenance.

It is recognized also that in many occupations an employee cannot become truly efficient in six months. After six months, however, every employee who is at all suited for the work should be able to earn enough to support herself.

The Wisconsin minimum wage law is reasonable and its requirements are much less stringent than those of the laws of other states. Every person who employs any woman or minor should become thoroughly familiar with this law and should not fail to observe its provisions. The penalty for violation is a forfeiture of from $10 to $100 for each day that any woman or minor is employed at less than the legal rate. Ignorance of law is no excuse; and employers should realize that once they allow an employee to have something on them they place themselves at her mercy.

JULY'S HOT BREATH IS SPIRIT OF CAESAR

July now the seventh month of the year, was originally the fifth in the Roman calendar, and was called by the Romans "Quintilis," or fifth. In the very ancient Alban calendar the month had thirty-six days. Romulus lopped off five of them and Numa took off another, and the month stood at thirty days until the time of Julius Caesar, who added another day because his birthday fell on July 12.

the name of the month changed from Quintilis to Julius, in honor of the dead man. One old authority says that Anthony selected the month of such honorary distinction because it is the month "when the sun is in generally most potent and the more effectively to denote that Julius was the emperor of the world and therefore the appropriate leader of half the year."

The ancient Anglo-Saxons called July the "Hey Monath," because they usually mowed and made their hay harvests then. Another name for the month among them was "Mead Monath," because the meadows were then in bloom.

Among the Romans there was a superstition that the great heat of the month of July was connected somehow with the rising and setting of the star Canicula, or Little Dog star, in coincidence with the sun. Therefore they called the days between July 3 and August 11 the "dog days" a name which this time of the year still retains in popular language. Canicula, as a matter of fact, does not rise in coincidence with the sun until the latter days of August.

AERIAL TAXIS IN CANADA Seventeen aerial taxicab companies are being formed in western Canada, and a number of these have already been licensed by the air board, according to the Brooklyn Eagle. Four commercial flying companies have been formed in Winnipeg, and there are companies at Regina, Medicine Hat, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Hanna (Alberta), Calgary, Lethbridge, Banff, and in Vancouver. Air-domes are to be built at Viridian and Vancouver.

Passenger flying is the first object of these companies, and mail carrying and distribution for large shops are expected to follow.

WISCONSIN IS O. K. IN COW TESTING

Madison—Wisconsin and Michigan are the only midwestern states which will continue to receive federal aid in the cow testing work next year. This recent announcement by E. T. Meredith, secretary of agriculture, is considered by officials of the Wisconsin college of agriculture to be a recognition of the unusual expansion in the cow testing work next year.

"Today," says J. C. Grauer, in charge of cow testing in Wisconsin for the University of Wisconsin, "the state has 110 cow testing associations which are actively eliminating the low producing dairy cows of their members. This number is 150 per cent of any other state. Furthermore, all of the members of 42 of these associations use only purebred sires—they have entirely eliminated the scrub bull."

Twenty-five reductions in federal appropriations for the department of agriculture made it necessary for the department to abandon its financial aid for cow testing work to 10 eastern and mid-western states which were formerly on the list of states receiving federal support. Wisconsin is one of the few states in the country retained on the list.

BEAUTIFUL HOMES AND PLANS. DESIGN No. 616

Design No. 616. This house, of craftsman architecture, is 28-0 by 28-0 feet, exclusive of sun room. The exterior although very plain has beautiful lines and a massive appearance and is recommended for stability and economy in construction. The sun room occupying the front of house and the deep recessed casement windows produce a very artistic appearance. The side entrance as provided for in this plan is a practical and out-of-the-ordinary method of construction. Either tile or patent shingles can be used for roofing. The feature of the interior of this house is the large living room with arches to dining room, and open stairway, also the general arrangement throughout is most practical in every detail, as will be observed, by careful study.

Glad They Built Homes

Several years from now many happy families will be living in comfortable homes that they are building now.

Some decided to build because they got tired paying enough rent every few years to more than buy the homes in which they lived. The housing shortage forced others to build. But all who studied the situation, who consulted with people who know about building and who selected their locations with care, will be glad that their monthly installments go toward creating an equity rather than for rent receipts.

In line with our desire to be of service, we have studied home-financing arrangements, collected plans of attractive homes and studied what materials to use in order to make the long-time cost low.

We can show you, too, why you can build now—why winter no longer makes it necessary to delay building till spring. That foolish theory was exploded several years ago. If you want a home, why wait, when you can START BUILDING NOW.

LABOR difficulties during the past couple of years have played a greater part in determining the policy of automobile builders than any other one thing. To produce the great number of cars built in the past year entailed the employment of labor to such an extent that a vast number of inefficient workmen have found their way into the ranks of all builders.

A concentrated movement on the part of all manufacturers to eliminate the inefficient and trouble making element will greatly reduce the number of cars built during the coming season, consequently the demand for cars, in ratio to the number of cars actually produced will of necessity be even greater than in the past couple of years. Very naturally, we wish you to look over our line before buying; but whatever car you buy, buy it soon.

AMATEUR RADIO OUTFITS ARE POPULAR

Chicago.—Since the government ban on amateur radio outfits was raised last October, 872 amateur stations have been opened in the Chicago district, comprising Illinois and 11 neighboring states, according to a report sent to Washington by Charles C. Klossner, United States radio inspector for the district. Of this number 282 are in Chicago.
"The radio fan would do anything to get money enough to buy radio equipment," Mr. Klossner said. "The cheapest equipment costs around $250 and some of the radio enthusiasts paid as high as $5,000 for their apparatus."
"There used to be a demand for commercial operators, but since the amateur operators have increased in such large numbers the number of operators seeking positions exceeds the vacancies."

MEXICAN CHURCHES RETURN TO CLERGY

Mexico.—City.—A number of churches in Guadalajara, taken over by the government in 1915 and held for a number of years, are now being returned to the clergy. According to El Heraldo de Mexico, the return of the Guadalajara churches is the first step in the president's program to turn

CHINA'S LABOR UNIONS IN EMBRYO STATE

Shanghai.—China's embryo labor unions are seeking an alliance with the national student body.
These labor unions are still in a nebulous state. The first of them came into being in Shanghai a few months ago in a loosely welded organization of coolies back from war work in France. Then were formed the Wharf Coolies' association, the Electricians' union, the China Labor union, the China Industrial Workers' union, the National Union of Laborers, and several others.
Organizers of these unions attempted to hold the first Labor day celebration in China on May 1, but when they undertook to parade in the native quarter they encountered two companies of Chinese troops and a machine gun detachment, ordered out by General Ho Fun-tung, acting defense commissioner, who forbade any form of demonstration.

Unwavering Disapproval

"You say that you have always objected to the use of money in politics?"
"Always," answered Senator Sargent; "especially when a fellow has more of it than I have."
Washington Star.

The Morning After

Wife.—"It's your own fault. You ought to know better than to stay out all night with your good for nothing friends drinking icecream soda."
—Judge.

Madison.—The body of H. H. Nelson, a man 45 years of age, was found in the city of his home. He had been brooding over since his second wife secured a divorce. He disappeared last Monday.

Jap Women Seek Hubbies In Days of High Costs

Tokio.—Japanese find a close connection between money and marriage by reading the lessons of the existing financial depression in Japan. The passing of easy money-making has caused a rush to the Japanese matrimonial agencies and women are leading in the rush. In prosperous times the agency customers are men looking for wives. At now, say matrimonial managers, the order is reversed. In view of the approach of "hard times," women are apparently seeking safety in the protection of husbands. One result of the feminine advance is a marked increase in marriages.

Japanese Organize Society of League of Nations

Tokio.—A Japanese Society of the League of Nations has been organized here with Baron Shibusawa as president and Baron Hara as vice president. The society aims at the realization of the spirit underlying the league of nations and for this purpose will undertake the following:
Investigation of subjects relative to the league of nations.
Establishing a close connection between Japanese and foreign public bodies organized with similar objects.
Despatch of Japanese delegates to kind of international conventions to be held abroad.

LAST PRISONERS OF WAR ARE BOLSHEVIKI

Paris.—The last prisoners of war in French hands, being members of the Russian expeditionary force that landed at Marseilles, acclaimed by enthusiastic throngs, in 1917, are being expatriated as fast as the slow progress of negotiations with the bolsheviks will allow.
About 5,000 of them remained interned after all other prisoners, including the Germans, had been sent home. Coming as allies and participating in some of the fiercest fighting along the Aisne, the Russians were deeply impressed by the revolution in their country; discipline suffered until finally revolt and mutiny broke out in the ranks, requiring severe measures.

The contingent never again participated in military operations. The men were used for a time in road repairing but the results were unsatisfactory. They are being exchanged for French soldiers taken by the Soviet forces on the Archangel front.

RUM REVEALED WHEN SAILORS GET BAD FOOT

Philadelphia.—"Hell's Bells!" said the bosun, "this chuck is rotten!"
"We're being starved!" chorused the rest of the seamen.
So when the American steamer Contocook reached here they whispered certain things to the customs inspectors.
The inspectors made search and seized 75 bottles of liquor found in various hiding places aboard the ship.
The haul, which consisted of rum, Canadian whiskey, Kentucky bourbon and other thirst slakers, was found under bags of sugar in the hold, in the captain's cabin, and in the crew's quarters. The liquor, which was not on the store list as required by law, was taken to the appraiser's store and sealed.

FINANCE

Wall Street Review.
New York, July 10.—Stocks were hesitant at the opening of today's session, but became distinctly reactionary before the end of the day. Price movements were more confusing later, when prices assumed the leadership, presumably on the basis of the crop prospects. Canadian, very low prices, Lackawanna, and various other low priced issues, notably Southern Railway and St. Louis and San Francisco, were especially strong. American Woolen was under constant pressure and by leading oils, Crucible, and other products and minor specialties. The close was irregular. Speculative favorites were again in the foreground at the opening of today's brief stock market session. Feature, rose 3 points, and advances of 1 to 2 points marked the early trading in Vanadium Steel, National Anthracite and United States Rubber. Unfavorable reports from the textile trade probably accounted for the pressure against American Woolen, which soon fell 3 points. Norfolk and Western, Louisville and Nashville, Steel, and Republic Iron were fractionally lower.
